

ABSTRACT

A pillow that includes an inflatable bladder surrounded by a resilient layer.

The bladder may be inflated to various levels to achieve a desired level of orthopedic support. In some embodiments of the invention, the pillow may include an outer comfort layer of softer material than the firm inner core.

Optionally, an integral hand pump may be included on the pillow for inflation purposes.